

Part-II

Q No 2

don't give common and very old references and there is no need to add book ref in the socio tell the author something new

1. Introduction:

~~Hamid, an author of a book "Constitutional and Political History of Pakistan" describes decentralization of power as a process of sharing power. The power is begin shared among center and provinces. The process of decentralization of power tremendously strengthens the democracy. It promotes national integration, multiculturalism, religious tolerance, human development and eliminate terrorism. It has tremendous role in strengthening the roots of democracy in Pakistan. Therefore, decentralization is one of the most gorgeous aspects for the strengthening of democracy.~~

2. Understanding decentralization of power:

Decentralization refers to the contribution of power among center and provinces. According to one of the most prominent scholars Hamid Khan, decentralization of power includes provincial autonomy, share of equal resources, administrative power of provinces. This process is called decentralization of power.

intro is enough for it and this a poor choice of question choose such questions which you can correlate with the syllabus this q has a very indirect relation with socio this is neither pak affairs nit current affairs

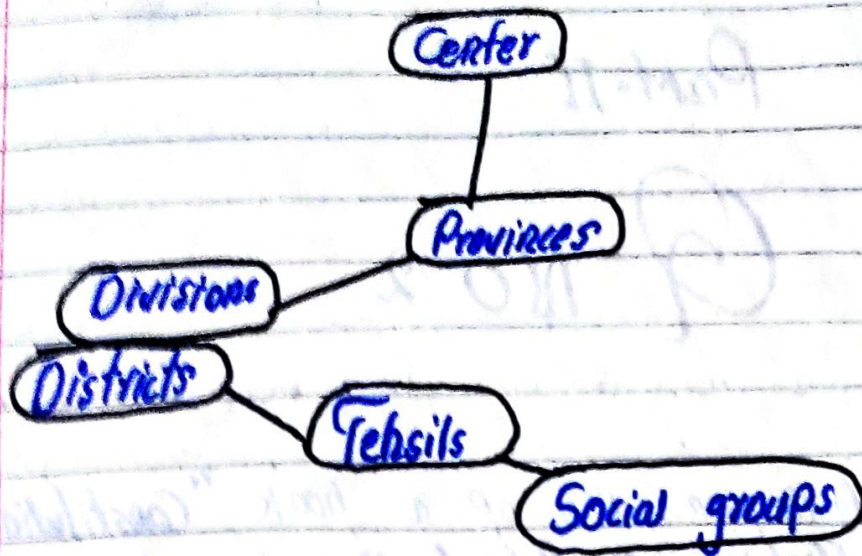

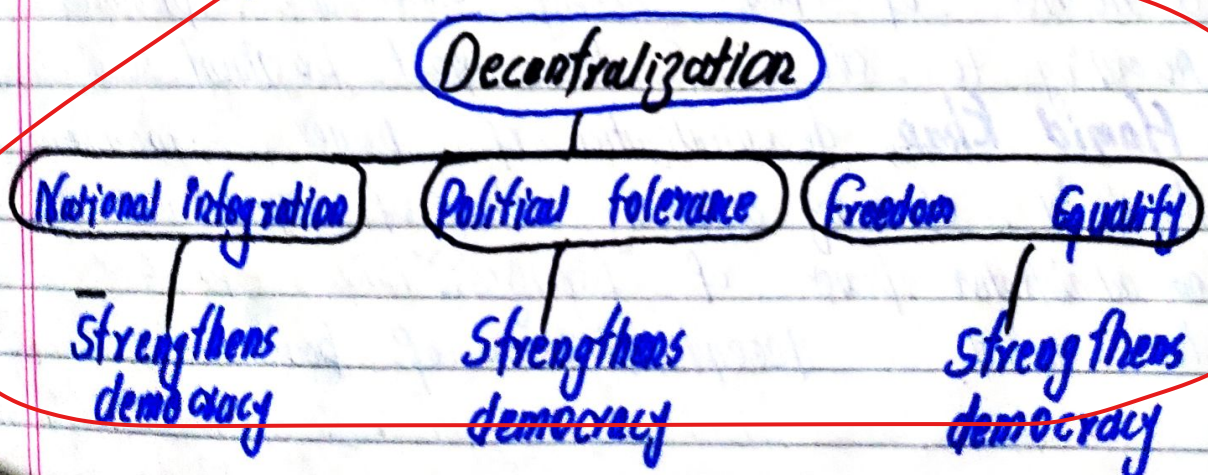

Figure 0.1 transfer of the Power among different stakeholders

2. Decentralization's importance in strengthening democracy:

Decentralization plays enormous role in the strengthening of democracy. It unites public, promote social integration, peace and political unity among the politicians. It has profound importance for the strengthening of democracy.

3. Role of decentralization in strengthening democracy in Pakistan:

3.1. Promoting national integration:

Decentralization in Pakistan has been promoting national integration in Pakistan. The process of decentralization of power started soon after the 1973 constitution. Thus, national integration contributes in the strengthening of democracy.

3.2 Decentralization contributed to political unity:

Decentralization has contributed to political unity.

4. Conclusion:

In short, decentralization is one of the most tremendous processes for the development of a country.

incomplete question with not even a single ref of syllabus 0/20
not satisfactory at all this is not a current affair of pak affair paper

ADA SIR, Please tell me how to attempt sociology paper. Especially, the structure of questions. Also, tell me how to write notes on 9 topics in sociology.

it is not possible explain this here