Reasons of the change
 in Syria:

People of Syria became rebellious after 2013
 and they started their protests against the dictator president
 'Bashar-ul- Assad'. It all started during the Arab Spring when other nations

~~some~~ started rebellion against their governments to keep the people of Syria quiet. Bashar started using weapons against them, and those who were in the protests they were sent to jail for an unknown time, and without informing their countries. Gradually people made small groups in different towns of Syria and used their small force against the Assad's regime. That simply was not enough to do something fruitful against government.

Israel and Syria:

During the regime of Assad, Israel already captured Golan Heights and they did want to expand more in the hope of greater Israel.

US, Israel, Russia and Iran:

Due to the strategic location of Syria the world's powers are against each other. Russia was always in the favour of President Assad as he had given the safe passage to the warm waters and ~~with~~ ^{by} the fall of Assad the Russian troops, air bases and navy will go through loss and the plan of removing Assad's government involves US and Israel. Moreover, by ~~the~~ removing Assad from the parliament US and Israel are now going to bombard Syria more. As HDS (a proxy lead by US) have already captured most of the places where oil is in abundance. The world knows that US is never after the benefit of people but for their own good (Maleeha Lodhi).

Syrians, after Assad fled to Russia, celebrated their freedom but soon after Tel Aviv, started bombing Syrian Army ~~BA~~ bases to ~~also~~ destroy their weapons. Israeli Army marched to Syrian land ~~and~~ to create a buffer zone for themselves (~~Anti~~ Zahid Hussain). Israeli army is moving towards Damascus ~~again~~ and the now government HTS is not doing anything against it or they might not have the power of going against US and Israel.

Change?

Syrians were ruled by a barbarian and on the day when they thought, they got the freedom; they faced more bombs, more deaths and more sufferings.

For the world this might be a change but for Syrians, one cannot say call it a change. They are in the static condition of chaos.
