Translation

All the degrees are going to be worthless in the next three years. The speed of technology and wish to take benefits from it is so fast that our previous information, means of curriculum and even subjects all are becoming irrelevant. When every information is available on hand-size phone than skill take mastery over knowledge and action take hold over thoughts. There is a skepticism that in future how scholars will tell stories on the stage to the student who took advantages from internet. How teachers will teach the secrets of Universe in a limited classroom?
