

Q. NO. 2

Day: _____

Date: _____

Title: Role of state institutes

State institutes are very crucial for a vibrant democracy. First of all, judiciary, being saviour of justice, ensures free and fair legal system. Role of judiciary should be accepted by promoting its authority. After that, legislative branch of state plays an important role to promote democratic norms and values. Citizens and leadership play their role in legislative process. Moreover, executive branch, being responsible for implementation of laws and policies, promotes sustainable development. When all state institutes work together, it leads to inclusive growth and development. Therefore, state institutes can perform well, if they are respected. It is duty of every citizen that they should cooperate with state institutes, only in this way justice, equality and progress can be achieved.

Q-NO.3

Day: _____

Date: _____

Day: _____

(1)

Hiroo is considered as a symbol of strength and loyalty because his resilience and steadfast to his duty gave him this title. Despite a lot of challenges, he followed discipline and respected his mission.

(2)

Onoda was sent to Usbang Island in the Philippines with orders to disrupt enemy operations. After that, he was given instruction that he was engaged in guerrilla warfare.

(3)

Cut off from communication remained, Onoda and his unit, isolated and unaware of Japan's surrender in 1945.

④ (4)

Efforts to aware onoda
and his men became unsuccessful
because there were a lot of skepticism.

(5)

Norio Suzuki become involved in onoda's story because that story was highlighted across the country.