

2. Good governance is the key to prosperity.

Outline:

1- Introduction

- (a) Hook
- (b) Thesis Statement.

2- Importance of Good Governance for Prosperity.

3- How Good Governance is the key to prosperity.

- (a) Provision of Fundamental Human Rights
 - (i) Right to life ensure by Good Governance
 - (ii) Right to Education
 - (iii) Freedom of Movement
 - (iv) Freedom of Speech
- (b) Good Governance ensures social justice needed for prosperity.
- (c) Good Governance ensures Public Service delivery.
- (d) Rule of law is necessary for prosperity.
- (e) Good Governance ensure Transparency
- (f) Main attribute of Good Governance is the Accountability.
- (g) Good Governance encourages Equality
- (h) Public participation achieved through Good Governance leads to Prosperity.

(i) Improve Economic Growth that lead to Prosperity.

4- Conclusion:

Good Governance is the relationship between the state and society that caters issues concerning national interests. As indicated by Dr. Ishrat Hussain: "The better the governance, the higher the economic growth rate". It is also evident that good governance has a direct relation with the growth rate of a country. And the growth rate has a direct impact on the prosperity of a country. Good governance will laid the foundation for building of other systems. It ensures the participation of all citizens on equality bases. The provision of fundamental human right is chief among those other fruits of good governance. It not only console the aggrieved party but also eradicate the menace of issue by ensuring transparency and accountability.

Good governance is still a remains a hurdle or challenge in the prosperity of Pakistan. This issue has prevailed due to various socio-political and historic reasons. However, these hurdles can be over come through various measures in order to ensure prosperity.

Good governance is needed to run the system of a country in an efficient manner. Especially in the case of developing countries like Pakistan, the important importance of good governance is strongly needed in order to make sure best practices in the provision of service delivery to get better economic growth rate that leads to prosperity.

One of the basic and most important aspect that good governance ensures is the provision of fundamental human rights needed for survival and progress of the country. It ensures the life protection of life of a human. With this right it becomes easy for them to move forward to get prosper. So good governance by protecting life is contributing towards prosperity.

Education is the most important ingredient in the recipe of prosperity of a nation. Good governance model if applied in education sector then it can lead a country to exponential growth that further lead to prosperity.

Good governance also make sure the freedom of movement of all citizens indiscriminately. Freedom of movement lead to the exploration and enhancement of economic activity that serves the goal of prosperity.

Freedom of speech and thought is necessary for improvement and consolidation of ideas that are innovating. Good governance by protecting the right of freedom of speech and thought ensures free float of innovative ideas and its correction and consolidation as well. In this way freedom of speech and thought lead to innovation and improvement that results into improvement and by this improvement society rise to prosperity.

Most of the conflicts are based upon social injustice that is usually due to the poor governance. So improving the model of governance will minimize the social injustice practices that destroy the chances of prosperity of a nation.

Poor service delivery due to weak governance structure lead to deprivation among the victims. This is ~~har~~ counter-productive in the way of social cohesion because of increasing in status gap in public. So better and timely service delivery is required for the prosperity of a country which is possible through good governance.

Rule of law is of the most importance in order to eliminate the evil elements and malpractices that are creating hurdles in the way of prosperity. Good governance also encompasses rule of law. So good governance is the key to prosperity.

Transparency is the major factor that can not only resolve the existing conflict but also minimize the emergence of any potential conflict. By resolving the conflict there are greater chances to be prosperous. Good governance also encompasses ~~the~~ transparency in the conduct of public affairs.

In order to eradicate the factors that are potential challenges in the way of prosperity, accountability of ~~the~~ everyone especially of those who are responsible is necessary. It will enforce ~~but~~ best practices and help in minimizing the mal-practices. In this way accountability drives towards prosperity through good governance.

The universal attribute that every human is entitled to is equality. But unequal treatment will lead to create a sense of deprivation in them and then they will unable to realize their true potential. This under performance also harmful to the prosperity. However, good governance through equal application of law and provision of opportunities has lead to strengthen the social fabric and patriotic sentiments. In this way they can better unite work together for the betterment and prosperity.

The active public participation is mandatory for the progress of a country. As it is also evident from the examples of the developed countries that the more the public participate the ~~more~~ better the governance system becomes. Because public can freely and clearly express their issues and faults in current governance system in order to get improvements. Thus good governance system provides the avenues and incorporate the public participation and positive response to due demands. In this way it increases the effectiveness and efficiency of governance that translate into the prosperity of nation.

Good governance has a direct impact on economic growth of a country. Improvement in service delivery and reduction in mal-practices will boost the business activities that contributes to the rise in economic growth. The economic growth create job opportunities and space for the government to enhance the scope of social uplifting programmes for the community. Thus good governance translate into ~~the~~ rise in economic growth that lead to the prosperity.

In a nutshell, the quality of governance is directly linked to the level of prosperity. The root cause of social evils lie in the poor governance system that further affect the prosperity. However there are certain measures that are significant to be ensure in order to the provision of good governance that can lead to the prosperity of nation, by making improvements in service delivery.

