Q2).

Sanctity of State Institutions

One of the fundamental state institutions demanding respect is the judiciary. Upholding the independence and integrity of the judiciary is crucial. Citizens and leaders must refrain from undermining the judiciary's authority. Similarly, respecting legislative branch is paramount for a vibrant democracy and robustness of legislative processes. The executive branch requires unwavering respect to function effectively. When state institutions work cohesively, nation progresses. Respect for state institutions also relies on conduct of people in leadership positions, in particular, political leaders. They must inspire public respect through their conduct. Respect of state institutions is essential for a functioning democracy. It is duty of citizens to respect and support state institutions and nurture a progressive society.

Q3).

Q1). Hiroo is considered as a symbol of strength and loyalty because of his utmost resilience and unwavering loyalty to his duty. Hiroo Onoda faithfully followed orders for almost 30 years. Despite being isolated from the world, he remained Steadfast to his duty. Hence, he is considered a symbol of strength and loyalty.

(Q2) Onoda was sent to the dense jungles of Lubang Island in the Philippines. His specific instructions included two orders. One order was to disrupt the enemy operations; and second order was to engage in guerrilla warfare.

(Q3) As Japan started losing the war, Onoda and his unit were isolated ^{because} they were cut off from communication with the main land. Japan surrendered in 1945. But since there was no communication network between Onoda's unit and Japan, Onoda and his unit remained unaware of the shifting geopolitical landscape.

(Q4) Several attempts were made to contact and inform Onoda and his men. Leaflets were dropped from the planes containing information of the end of war. Philippine government broadcasted several messages to spread the news. But all these attempts were unsuccessful due to dense and heavy foliage and the doubts of the soldiers who believed these attempts were enemy tricks.

Q5) Norio Suzuki was a young adventurer. Norio became involved in Onoda's story as he decided to venture into the dense jungles of Lubang with a mission to find Onoda. Norio found Onoda and tried to convince him that the war was over. However, Onoda was hesitant to believe it. Norio Suzuki managed to find Onoda's former commanding officer - Major Yoshimi Taniguchi - but Onoda was still not satisfied and wanted confirmation from higher-ranking officers. Such were the challenges faced by Suzuki in convincing Onoda about the end of war.

Q7)

All degrees are about to become useless in the next three years. Due to rapid change progress in technology, previous knowledge and their sources, even the topics and syllabus are becoming irrelevant. When every information is available on a mobile phone, skill and action overtakes knowledge and imagination. Now, the fear has risen about how will the clergy keep their listeners intact on their sermons and how will the teachers teach the secrets of the universe to the students, who are always benefitting from the internet.

Q6) b)

One day, while shopping for upcoming Eid, Heer bumped into Ranjha in a shop. Heer asked Ranjha where had he been and told him that she missed him a lot. Ranjha told her that he had to travel and he also missed her. He then asked Heer about her well being. She said she was lonely and asked him about his journey. He explained it was a self-discovery journey where he wandered through valleys and rivers but his thoughts were always with her. She asked what did he learn on the journey. He talked about the value of struggle and strength. She told him ^{that} she kept counting the days until he returned. He replied he was counting the moments until he could succeed in his final trial. Heer told him to not dwell on time apart and told him ^{that} they ~~are~~ were together ~~and~~ and that ~~was~~ ^{was all} that mattered. Ranjha replied in negative and said his exams were near and he had to leave. He ~~she~~ told her that his success would conquer distance and time.
