During the battle of Khyber Holy Prophet (PBUH) happened to come across the corpse of a woman, then he inquired how come she died as she was not fighting. He (PBUH) warned his companions that ~~be~~ were ~~of~~ of the rights of the non-combatants. He strictly prohibited his companions from meting out^{of} bad treatment of the children, old men, women and infirm people. This speaks of the reverence of human rights by Holy Prophet (PBUH) even in the event of wars. However in today's conflicts human rights are grossly violated. These violations ~~will~~ inculcate the snatching of right to life, liberty and freedom, further the right to basic life amenities and right to political participation are not respected. Besides, humanitarian aid and right to information is denied to the people.

of conflict zones. Such denials have huge impacts on humans. These include dilapidated living conditions of the conflict affected and the unawareness of the outside world of the sufferings of the conflict-ridden people. Moreover, dearth of the resources for victims becomes the order of the day and prevalence of the infectious diseases is also a repercussion of war zones denial of human rights.

Nevertheless, the adoption of UN charter of human rights can aid in reducing the negative impacts of war zones rights denial of human rights. Provision of basic necessities of life and access to humanitarian aid and unbiased role of media and respect of social, political and religious rights are some recommendations that can succour in overcoming of human rights violation in conflict zones. Hence, one of the greatest tragedies of any conflict is the non-reverence of human rights.

the right to life, religion, basic necessities, humanitarian aid, social and political participation are grossly violated. However, with the adherence to UN charter of human rights such violations can be brought to be respected in conflict zones.

The violation of human rights and the conflicts are closely linked together. Whenever, there arise a conflict first death that occurs is that of human rights. People are denied basic rights. They are forced from their homes and access to aid is denied to them. The bombardment of schools, and religious buildings are some of the violations of the human rights.

According to the Charter of United Nations Human Rights are defined as 'the respect for the people's life, liberty and freedom, the freedom of religious profession, the liberty to speak and access to information constitute the human rights. on the other hand, conflicts are defined as according to Oxford dictionary 'any unrest in any region owing to the vested interests of people group of people or countries'.

Moving ahead towards the denial of rights to human ~~to~~ human beings include the refusal to anthropologists of the right to life, liberty and ~~from~~ freedom. In conflict zones ^{non-combatants} humans are the greatest sufferers. Hundreds of thousands of people are killed. In the ongoing conflict of Hamas-Israel many innocent lives are lost.

According to the Dawn newspaper around twenty seven people have been butchered in just five months. Most of slaughtered dead bodies are that of children and women. Further the liberty to move freely in the conflict areas is strictly prohibited. Hence, it is said the innocent non-combatants are the chief sufferers of the conflict.

Further, the access to the basic amenities of life are denied to them be they are houses, hospital schools and food. Millions of people are seen on roads in Palestine getting medical care. According to Al-Jazeera, around two million people in Palestine are taking refuge in camps that are devoid any heating facility in the chilling cold weather. Such are the conditions of the people in conflict zones.

Moreover, the humanitarian aid is also stopped to the affected of conflicts. The borders of Palestine have been blockaded in order to prevent the access to humanitarian aid to the Palestinians. According to United Nations food programme around 10 tonnes of food is decaying in trucks carrying food to the war zones. This is bleak sight of the conflict zones.

In addition, the political rights are ~~so~~ starkly violated in the war areas. For example after 9/11, the political activities in Afghanistan came to standstill. Rights to vote, hold rallies and to choose the representative of their own is usually refused to the people of conflict zones.

Further, in the ongoing conflict of Israel-Hamas it would take years in Palestine to bring the political environment to normalcy.

So, one of the core issues are the political rights of the people in any conflict.

In the same vein, people do not have access to information in conflict zones. Internet blackouts are the the order of the day in Palestine in order that the international world remains oblivious of the precarious conditions of the people of conflict-hidden areas.

Such Human Rights violations have severe repercussions that include first, the living conditions of the people deteriorates to the lowest ebb. The people are made to live on the rubble of their demolished homes without electricity and gas and food. This reduces them to live a sad life.

The whole system becomes so, damaged that they don't have any access to clean drinking water and medical access for them becomes a distant dream.

It also affects the mental health of the conflict zones. So, the conflict has deteriorated the living conditions of the inhabitants of the conflict zones' people.

Further, due to the non-access to information, the outside world remains oblivious of the sufferings of the people. They are unaware of the worsening situations of the people -

12)

According to BBC, its reporters were arrested on the Israel-Palestine border. This is the death blow to the right to access to information to the people.

Furthermore, there is usually scarcity of resources for the conflict-affected people. The stocks of food, vegetables and other items is reduced to level zero.

Besides, there is no facility of clean drinking water for the people of Palestine. In the same way, life saving medicines are running short in Palestine which adds to their suffering.

Due to unavailability of clean water many infectious diseases are rapidly disseminating in Gaza Strip. According to

WHO chief Tedros Adhanom, the Pneumonia and Diarrhea are spreading like wild fire in the Palestine.

Steps on war-footing are requisite to save people from the curable diseases. Hence, war has adversely impacted the lives of the people who are living in unfortunate zones.

As every problem has a solution similarly, the violation of human rights in war zones can be reduced by religiously following the the Charter of United Nations of human rights. The Charter has explicitly explained the rights of human being whose reverence is incumbent upon all the leaders of the world.

Similarly, the access to the basic amenities is the birth-right of every human being. Steps must be taken to provide such basic necessities like food, shelter, water and access to life saving medicines. By adhering to sense of humanity the rights of affected people of war zones can be protected.

Further, the humanitarian aid organizations must be provided access to war zones to succour the suffering people. According to UNFP, it was denied access to Palestine. Such restriction must be uplifted. Many NGOs must be generously given charity by wealthy countries so that they could meet the necessities of the people.

Further, media must play a vibrant and unbiased role in telling the world the ground realities of the violations of human rights in the conflict zones. No restrictions be put on the media reporters. Media is considered fourth pillar of democracy in any country so, it must play its role with utmost integrity.

Last but not the least, the social, political and religious rights of the people must be revered. People must be allowed to form communities here else to assemblies to get their voices heard. Further they must freely profess their religion without any fear of being punished to practicing the religious. Such rights must be protected at all costs

Conclusively, it can be said that the biggest sufferers of any conflict in the world the human being that are innocent. The rights of human being are violated without any restraint which adversely affect the well-being of people - they fall victims of hunger, poverty, rendered homeless and prone to various curable infectious diseases. Nevertheless, by following the UN charter for human rights such rights can be protected and the unbiased role of media is decisive in showing the world the real face of the actual culprits who do gross injustice to the non-combatants.
