

①

Essay Test-1

7- "You can tell the strength of a nation by the women behind its men."

Outline

1) Introduction

a) Thesis Statement

A nation can enhance its progress at national and international level with the participation of women in all sectors inside men. Moreover, women are suffering various very difficulties to work with men such as harassment of women. However, a nation should provide security to women in all working sectors for increasing national growth.

2) History of women participation to strength of a nation

a) Benazir Bhutto became Prime Minister of Pakistan

b) President of Africa Nelson Mandela

3) Current scenario of women working inside men

4) How the participation of women inside men to increase national strength?

a) Enhancing the role of women in agricultural sector

b) Participating of women in politics

c) Providing equal participation of women z)

in jobs with men

d) Building more women universities in a country

e) Learning advanced technology, AI

f) Eradicating restrictions on women in society

g) Providing security for women at workplace

h) Increasing separate funds for women education

5) Problems to face women in the world

a) Increased rape case in the world

b) Facing difficulties in education sectors

c) Social restrictions impose on women

d) Enhanced security threats for women

e) Declining role of women in politics

6) Conclusion

Introduction

A well known African proverb "If a nation educate a man, it will educate a individual, on the other hand, if a nation educate a woman, it will educate the whole society or a nation. Thereby, the participation of women in all sectors of a country such as economic, agricultural, industrial and educational is very necessary with men. The strength of a nation can increase with participation of women. Furthermore, example of famous political leaders of Pakistan "Benazir Bhutto" in politics is very crucial for women's participation in politics. Besides, the African President "Nelson Mandela" promoted women role in politics and all sectors. Therefore, role of women can enhance national growth to provide equal opportunities inside men. Providing security for women at workplace can enhance more job opportunities and eradicate fear of their hearts. Promoting women participation in agricultural and industrial sectors can enhance national economic growth. However, a nation can enhance its progress at national and international level with the participation of women with men. Moreover, it should provide security to women in all working sectors for increasing national strength.

3)

4)

6) Implications of climate change for Children in developing countries.

outline

1) Introduction

a) Thesis Statement

Developing countries, especially Pakistan are facing climate implications for children in education and health sectors. These climate impacts are increasing both natural and manmade activities. However, <sup>the</sup> government needs comprehensive policies to eradicate the implications of climate change for Children.

2) overview of climate change implications for Children

3) Implications of climate change for Children

a) Closing of education sectors

b) Increasing health problems in Children

c) Impacting on their future dreams

d) Facing food problems

e) Enhancing child labour

f) Decreasing role of girls in education

5)

g) Increasing crimes rate among Children

4) Why are implications of climate change increasing for children?

a)

4) Causes of implications of climate change for children

a) Increasing air pollution in the country

b) Coming of natural disaster floods and drought

c) Using of air poll non-renewable energy resources d)

5) Steps to resolve the implications of climate change for children

a) Implementing Sops in education sectors

b) Focusing on children diet

c) Avoiding contaminated foods

d) Increasing awareness among children

e) Studying of "Environmental Subject" at grade I and II

f) Reducing Child labour

g) Increasing the role of girls in education

6) Conclusion

6)

Nowadays, Children's Problems are increasing in developing world. Children are facing various issues such as education, health, maladaptation and labour problems. These are increasing due to negative impacts of climate change. Owing to shortage of finance, developing world are not decreasing climate problems. There are some implications which are facing children in developing world especially in Pakistan. Due to some of, children have been facing education and health related issues for many months. Health related disease such as cough, ill, eyes problems are increasing in children. Furthermore, future dreams of children are destroying because schools have destroyed due to floods. Besides, crimes rate are enhancing in the country due to children because many of children are adopting wrong ways. Such as sexual activities and maladaptation. Participation of girls in education is also decreasing because parents are feeling fear about their daughter. These implications are enhancing due to climate change and climate change is increasing owing to natural and anthropogenic activities. In fact, developing world, especially Pakistan are facing climate implications for children in education and health sectors. The climate impacts are increasing both natural and man made activities. However, <sup>the</sup> government needs comprehensive policies to address the implications of climate change for children.

7)