Title: Pitfalls of Media

Media ~~can~~ causes confusion in a society. The first element to this confusion is spread of misinformation and disinformation. Sensationalism is given precedence over right information. People find hard to differentiate between accurate and false information. They get confused. Media shapes public opinion that oversimplifies essential issues. It also causes confusion among people. Information is sent 24/7 by media. It results in information overload. People feel mental fatigue. They fail to make analysis of information. Media affects social norms and values. It sends contradictory messages. As these messages are not expected by society. Media can prioritize divisive information for its viewership.
