

Title: Role of Media to Create Confused and Polarised Society

Media is important to disseminate information and to educate society; however, sometimes, it plays destructive role by creating confusion among masses. This is due to many reasons - First, the excess of misinformation and inaccurate data create false propaganda. Second, media converts complex matters into simplified but binary agendas which create disorientation. Third, people have access to constant information which affect their comprehension capabilities. Fourth, media manipulate people when it tries to reshape societal expectation and divert them from their individual perception. Resultantly, pluralistic viewpoints are changed to polarized ones. Fifth, media's personal gains outweigh the very role of it; thus, creating confusion. To encapsulate, self-interest over society undermines the purpose of a society.
