Therefore, some lawyers have completely denied the importance of international law. Some sovereign states do not consider the international order due to its non-alignment with the national laws. The rule of sovereign states of not accepting the international law has actually taken away their sovereignty. The issue is sorted out by convincing the states on giving the consent about <sup>showing</sup> conformity. International law is considered to be a difficult settlement. Some view it as fake and other as a source of peace on Earth. While, none of them holds proper explanation to adjust settlement between sovereign states and international law.
