

Election are not the only solution to multipronged problems in Pakistan.

Outline :-

100

- 1) Introduction
- 2) Thesis statement :-

No, elections are not the sole solution to multipronged problems in Pakistan, because :: elections cannot be fair in the first place and if they are, the new government doesn't have the legitimate power and completely dependent upon coalition parties and state institutions to run the state.

Don't write like this, This is not a formal way to establish your stance

That's because you are putting conditions on the elections. Not stating this is so because there are underlying faults in our system and society that require reforms not just election.

3) Crunch Paragraph

4) Elections in Pakistan are mostly unfair :-

- 4a) Absence of same level playing field to every political parties ✓
- 4b) State institutions and machinery support their willing side indirectly ✓
- 4c) Uncertainty during polls, closing and opening of polling station in unlawful manner by security forces.

5) Unfair elections increases the problems instead of solving:

5a) Democracy becomes down as right to power gives to the willing political side instead to the public majority.

5b) Tension increases between loosing and winning political sides, result in political instability, a major delinquent

6) Still fair election are not the only solution:

6a) Despite fair, unfair election, there ~~are~~ ^{were} about 12 general elections held in past 40 years, still no outcome.

6b) Those who govern the authority never want a problem free Pakistan

6c) Government in power is never become free to take actions on their decision in Pakistan.

7) Importance of elections

7a) Every citizen get a chance of right to vote to choose the right ~~and their~~

7b) International bodies can trust the elected govern bodies

7c) Elections results in power shifting, leads to political stability.

7d) Elections assists in bolstering the foreign loan and aids coming to country, a temporary solution of economy

8) Election in favour of specific side, completely ends the whole importance of election:

8a) The right of vote of citizen is converted to the desired political side in Pakistan

8b) No political parties in favour of power shifting, who is in power state.

8c) directly leads to political instability

8d) International bodies giving loan, only trust upon elected bodies of state not upon impated bodies.

9) Recommendations

9a) First of all, fair elections are needed

9b) Give two-third majority to the government
