

3/5 Title: Conflicting role of Media

Though media has made information easily accessible, it has ~~also~~ increased the spread of inaccurate information. The preference towards sensational content over accurate one can also increase the spread of misinformation. Moreover, social media apps can further enhance the circulation of false information. Therefore, it is hard for people to determine which content is accurate. Media can also shape public view on different issues. It oversimplifies intricate and multidimensional matters which can hinder public's understanding of the problem. Furthermore, people are fed information round the clock which can overwhelm them and prevent them from understanding it. Media content can also shape cultural and societal ideals. The content might portray opposing values, leading to an identity crisis. Some media groups deliberately play controversial content to attract more viewers. Hence, if media outlets are not held accountable, they will breed chaos in a society.

Q2: 1) According to the passage sportsmanship can be conceptualized as maintaining one's temperament in situations where normally ~~most~~ people would not be able to do so. The virtues that sportsmanship ~~etc~~ encompasses are maintaining honesty, keeping control of one's self, having perseverance, and treating others kindly.
