Q#1

Precis

Media inculcates both education and information to masses. But sometimes mislead them because it compromises the accuracy of content over its thrilling effect. Social media can immediately spread wrong and unauthentic information. So, public becomes unable to differentiate unauthentic information from authentic one. Media either oversimplified the information or it produce diverse point of views. Over-simplification leads to confusion and an individual cannot properly understands complexity of information and situation. Similarly, the constant supply of news provides a lot of information. The bulk of information is less comprehensible and causes burden on an individual's mind. It leads to confusion. In addition to confusion, it inappropriately exhibit the norms and values of society and spread confusion related to cultural expectation. In fact, the media sponsors aim to increase the viewership at the cost of quality. If it is not undercheck would brings confusion and divide in society. Thus preference of personal interest over collective declines individual existance and spread chaos
