Unlike other regions of United Kingdom, London is unique. It is London where an individual has worth due to his qualities and capabilities. In other regions an individual is known by one's material possessions. The intellectual and social capabilities have no value in front of them. Materialism made people proud of themselves. Every man is known by good manners and courteousness in London. Thus a landlord can lose his position because of equality in that city. It has no distinction of rich and poor. There is no question that a person is either having own car or using public vehicle. In the country side, people entertain and impress others with money which author liked the most. According to author if one wants to live life with freedom and equality then London is the suitable place for one's living
