Title:-

International Law versus State-sovereignty :-

The domestic rules governing the individual's behavior are termed as 'municipal law' while those governing the state's behavior are considered 'international law'.

Even so, ~~the~~ name does not reveal any nature. International law need strong social support govern by a ruler for its implementation. It is present between the states.

However, lawyer reject the international law legally because of the absence of visible sanctions. Sovereign states cannot bind by any legal rules. As per the theory of consent, state can reject or accept the international legal rules.

In the Wimbledon case, World Court define sovereignty as ~~in any case state abstaining~~ abstaining from an action damage their sovereignty. Complex shape of international law reveals its wide significance. Some considers it superior while others say, it will bring peace if practices by politicians. No one give a true picture of game which reveals the existence of both in peaceful manner.
