

Question-2

Worriers win the World

Shaikh Rashid, the founder of modern Dubai in his interview once emphasized the importance of hard work. According to him struggle made him and his generation richer but if not be continued may lead to part.

According to him, when success is ready made for youth, they will become sluggish and <sup>will</sup> decline.

Though society needs enthusiastic men. The author writes that this enthusiasm can be productive, when it is meet with education, ambition and self reliance. And, to maintain its prestige Dubai must continue its commitment towards future. To acquire persistent success mass development is necessary. According to author, progress is not constant as warned by Shaikh Rashid. And, societies can also take lessons from Shaikh's doctrine of cyclical nature of history. His statement deep in its dynamics of time what strength makes time easy and favourable time converts men into ill or handicapped. Boom and bust are two sides of coin and one with perseverance can turn bust into boom, while, an idle would not know how to turn the coin.

Translation

If you would have travelled by plane internationally or taken any transit flight from Dubai, Qatar or Kuwait, you would have observed the peaceful surrounding in Japanese passengers portia. They all are disciplined and uniform their appearance. Similarly when you visit German, Chinese, Malaysian, Australian, or Spanish gates, situation will be same. You will find national uniformity. But when you reach at the jet of Pakistani passengers, great diversity is prominent over uniformity. Majority of gloomy faces, weeping of children, and variety of dresses will welcome you. You will find every kind of person like newly weds, old ladies and their meeto meeto dramas. Similarly, alesia of the country would also be witnessed with bunches of -their gods demands- white business class. Bureaucrats can also not be escaped from the eye.
