"Globalization is the only way which has connected the world at the same time it has the power to create numerous crisis"

Ban-ki-moon said before the conference of the United Nations. Truly, globalization has not only contributed to the progress of human rights but also exploited the humans.

Progress of human rights under the influence of globalization includes connectivity of humans, creation of jobs for every individual, improvement in the services so on and so forth. On the other hand, setback of the human rights includes economic exploitation of underdeveloped nations, hike in the crime rates, outflow of valuable minerals, exploitation of labours and creation of food insecurity in the developing nations. Therefore, globalization has not only contributed to the progress of human rights but also push the humans towards exploitations.

To begin with the progress of human rights, the globalization has brought connectivity among the people. People are being connected digitally and physically. This connectivity assesses the individuals to have dealings with different people without the consideration of gender, color and culture. Therefore, the most tremendous gift of globalization is to connect the world.

Moreover, globalization has created numerous jobs. It has allowed the nation states to invest in the projects of one another.
The CPEC project shows the creation of jobs for the progress of human rights. According to Chinese authorities in the CPEC Phase-1 92000 individuals were employed. Consequently, CPEC Phase-1 under the speed of globalization has brought prosperity in the region.

Besides, globalization has contributed to the promotion of technology worldwide. Individuals who used to suffer from disability in the society now assisted by the technology, Technological cars, devices and robots have been used by the special persons of the society so as to live equally in the society. Thus, globalization has transferred technology for the betterment of humans.

Further, globalization has created the environment among the nations to have mutual trade.

According to WTO Report on Mutual trade among underdeveloped nations 2023

the volume of trade reached to trillions of dollars in Africa and Asia. Consequently, the mutual cooperation in trade contributed to reduction in poverty, the Reuters exposed the success of the trade.

Moreover, globalization has been contributing to the production of products in industrial sector for the benefits of individuals. Individuals used to suffer from hunger, unemployment and inflation. Globalization has created environment of industries where individuals work to earn and enjoy the provision of products. Such industries and companies include KFC, McDonald and Food production industries around the world. Thus, globalization has progressed the lives of humans.

Moreover, globalization has increased the investment in the developing countries. The countries such as in Asia and Africa are used to experience profound unemployment and violation of human basic rights. Globalization has brought investment in the energy, mining and social sectors of the regions. Consequently, under the developments of projects jobs increased which served to provide the basic support to the oppressed humans.

Further more, globalization has improved the services for the humans in health, education and communication sectors. Numerous foreign as companies such WHO sponsored hospitals, private telecommunication companies and online educational services have been assisting individuals. Therefore, globalization has fully improved the services for the betterment of humans.

On the other hand, globalization has exploited the nations. Companies around the world have been investing in the developing countries. The aim of numerous companies is to get profit rather than helping the masses. A case study Bannic shows the full economic exploitation of developing countries people. For example, the Bannic Company has been involved in the Rego-deq Project of Pakistan. The agreement has signed on the basis of shares. The company takes 50% and gives 20% to the country. Therefore, it is the exploitation of poor and setbacks to the basic rights of humans under globalization.

Moreover, globalization has contributed to hike of crimes. Individuals who migrated to Europe and middle have found guilty. Many immigrants start criminal activities such as rape, robbing and prostitution in the new countries. According to WHO Report on Prostitution immigrants and refugees have been found always guilty of wrongdoings. Thus, globalization has harmed the rights of progress of humans.

Further, globalization which has contributed in the mass migration of people has pushed the refugee crisis. When the war erupted in Afghanistan in 2001, Pakistan following the international norms and values allowed the refugees to enter into Pakistan. Later, the same refugees have exploited the locals. Thus, globalization is setback to human rights.

Moreover, globalization allows the countries to be connected. The most developed countries invest in the minerals of the developing countries. Consequently, provide confined shares to the developing nations and export the valuable material to the native lands. Thus, the conduct of globalization exploits the developing countries.

Also, labours in the process of globalization are exploited. Whenever, labours from Pakistan, India and Afghanistan are employed in the middle East. The labours are discriminated, paid less and abused by the owners. Also, the labours are treated as machines and oppressed to work. Thus, the process of globalization has exploited the rights of humans.

Moreover, the process of globalization has contributed to the ethnic conflicts. The minorities also face oppression based on color, language and religion from the natives.

consequently, it contributes to the ethnic disputes of humans.

moreover, globalization has been contributing to the food insecurity of the countries. According to the WB, the individuals who migrate from the other nations also create profound burden on the hosting country. Thus, it leads to food insecurity. The food insecurity is the provision of globalization in many parts of the world.

In short, globalization is one of the most tremendous aspects. This has been assisting numerous countries of the world economically, socially and educationally. Although, it has serious threats for the countries of the world. The process of globalization exploits the countries economically, socially and educationally when it is not properly regulated. This is one of the need of hours for the nation states to regulate and make new policies for the better regulating of the process. "Globalization is going to change the era of crisis, if we the nations of the world regulate and handle carefully." Obama.
