Q. No. 2

Raise Warriors, not Parasites

Sheikh Rashid, the founder of modern Dubai, once said that his grandfather rode a camel, his father rode a camel. He drives a Mercedes, his son drives a Land Rover, and his grandson will drive a Land Rover, but his great-grandson will have to ride camel again. Hard times create strong men, strong men create easy time. Easy time makes weak men, weak men create hard time. We have to raise warriors, not parasites.

Sheikh Rashid wants to emphasize that the prosperity, and technological developments are not for granted, it must be earned. In order to maintain the prosperity, the new generation must be equipped with leadership skills, modern education and diplomacy.

'Warriors' symbolize the new generation possessing perseverance, strength and resilience to overcome the challenges. 'Parasites' symbolize those weak people who rely on the accomplishments of others.

In order to keep Dubai growing and competing with modern world, there is a dire need to invest in human capital and impart adaptability and determination among its people. To make people better prepared for future, Sheikh Rashid emphasize on the need of developing resilience rather than weakness.

Q. NO. 3

It was the winters with temperature around  $-5^{\circ}\text{C}$ . The whole family of little girl was killed and she was crying very loudly. In that cold weather, the little girl was wearing light, thin tattered clothes that wasn't enough, shivering with cold, the girl was looking here and there with fearful eyes when the Turkish soldier Süleyman found her.

Turkish soldier Süleyman found the little girl in the cold weather when the girl was crying loudly and shivering with cold. The soldier knew that whole family of the little girl is killed so he took the girl when himself. For one and half year Süleyman took care of her in his military camp. Even the entire people in military camp was like her family. Süleyman was like a father to her in those times.

3. Süleyman always thought about Alya. When Turkey was playing football in South Korea, he constantly stared at spectators, hoping to see Alya, but all in vain. At age of 85, Süleyman shared his story during the reception ceremony for 65th anniversary of Korean War. A South Korean journalist recognized Alya and Alya was told about Süleyman and she recognized him and in 2010, Süleyman went to Turkey to meet her daughter Alya.

4. A South Korean journalist recognized Alya after hearing the story of Süleyman and Alya. Alya was in touch with the journalist's sister. When Alya was shown old photos, she broke in tears. She recalled everything and said that Süleyman was here, here.

Sileyman then met with Ayla in 2010 at Sukara School where he left Ayla.

The story gives a lesson that one should never lose hopes. Even in desperate situations, there will be a way. Doors will always open for those bold enough to knock. In the commemoration of Sileyman and Ayla a movie named "Ayla: The Daughter of War" was made by Turkey and it was elected as Turkey's official candidate for best language film for Oscars.
