Resilience Over Comfort: Dubai's Future

06/20

Title: Cyclical Nature of the Societal Development

Precis: Sheikh Rashid of Dubai reflected upon the nature importance of historicism for the development of societies - He regarded a strong allegiance of a society to the sustainable development as inevitable where each generation add into the glorious legacy to maintain the winning streak in the long run - Societal development function as a spiral where successors have to contribute to extract advantages in future - They are bound to perpetually strive and keep the attainments instead of erecting them to sluggishness - The moment one generation resorts to laxity, the stage of decline for upcoming generation is set - Therefore, an impeccable balance between the struggle and easiness must be adopted to protect and transfer the privileged glorious legacy - Not only does this urge to protect the legacy from waning ~~raises~~ a strong society that faces all storms with high-headedness, but also brings optimism in those who go to lengths to depend it - This phenomenon is a manifestation of the spiral model of sustainable societal development and Sheikh Rashid's insights remind individuals that maintaining prosperity requires continuous effort and the development of strong individuals, preparing society to face future challenges with strength and resilience.

Translated Passage

If you have experienced international travel with transit flights from Dubai, Qatar, and Kuwait, you might have noticed the serenity in Japan's waiting areas. Passing through the gates of Germany, Malaysia, China, Spain, Australia and New Zealand, you would find a similar atmosphere of unity and harmony. However, stumbling upon Pakistan's gate, you would be struck by a scene of diversity and discord. The majority display worn-out faces, cries of babies, some in jeans and others in Shalwar Kameez, newlywed brides awaiting reunion with foreign husbands, hunched elderly women suffering from knee pain, diaspora labourers with chadda on shoulders and sweets in their hands, and safari-adorned business-class travelling bureaucrats.

Elsewhere, you see business-class passengers dressed in safari suits, who are bureaucrats.
