Don't write all capital letters in the title

0

The founder of modern Dubai, Sheikh Rashid in ~~one of the~~ an interview, pondered upon the gyre of societal growth and Dubai's future. He explained the path of civilizations by saying how his family stepped into luxury from riding camels. He made clear that low hardships creates strong men and ease creates weak men.

Precis is written in single passage

Please review the Precise rules again

The move from camels to luxury cars signifies the swift development of Dubai under his reign. However, the mention of the return of the camel shows downfall in hard times, people develop skills for survival and in times of comfort incompetent men brings back hard times.

He wants the coming generation to be of strong men and not of weak men who relies on others. He views an education system where men are taught to be hardworkers. This idea can lessen the danger of decline of civilizations. Societies can stop from being wiped off by investing more in making individuals strong enough to face any hardships face tomorrow.
