Write Precis.

" A ^{lasting} legacy: Balancing prosperity with resilience" 06/20

Precis :

" Sheikh Rasheed's meta-phor describes the cyclic nature of societal development, where hard times leads to strong individuals, prosperity ~~and~~ ^{leads to} eventual decline. He stresses the importance of raising resilient individuals, not those reliant on others, to ensure a sustainable future. Dubai's development symbolized by the transition from camels to luxury cars and back again, illustrates the cyclic nature of societal progress, where strength and resilience are forged into adversity and lost in prosperity. His appeal to "raise warriors, not parasites" emphasizes the need to cultivate resilient and responsible individuals through education

"I have experienced international travel and have seen the transit lounges of Dubai, Qatar, Kuwait, and others.

I have observed that Japanese passengers waiting at their gate are disciplined and calm, and they all look similar in terms of their behavior, dress, and demeanor. The same is true for German, Malaysian, Chinese, Spanish, Australian, and New Zealand gates. You will find similar scenes at each one, with a sense of national unity evident. But when you reach the Pakistani gate, you'll see a different story altogether. Instead of a single unified scene, you'll witness a diverse range of people, clothing, and behaviors. You will hear children crying, see people wearing different type of clothing, from shalwar kameez to jeans and T-shirts. Some women will be wearing henna designs on their hands, while others will be struggling with their luggage.

There are newlywed brides with henna-decorated hands eagerly waiting to reunite with their husbands, and elderly mothers-in-law suffering from joint pain walking slowly.

You will see young men who have come to work abroad, sitting in a corner, wearing safai suits and holding shopping bags, while businessmen in suits will be busy with their laptops.
The atmosphere is chaotic, but it's a chaos that's uniquely Pakistani.⁴
