Human Values: The Bedrock of Nation

Character Building Saves a Nation

05/20

Q2

The Great wall of China was the first step of Chinese to live in peace. Twenty hundred years ago, they thought no one could climb that wall due to its huge height. But Chinese were attacked ^{multiple times} three times. Enemy had entered through gates by bribing the guards. Chinese had invested on infrastructure rather than character building of its citizens. Youth of a nation needs to be known that building a human character is the most important task than everything else in society. It is said that a nation's civilization
