Q. No. 5

1. Introduction:

Hamidullah ascribes in one of his books "Introduction to Islam" that before the coming of Islam women used to suffer worse than animals. Women were killed at very infant age, no proper marriage system and used as a sex object. Islam has brought freedom, dignity and equality. Therefore, women who were oppressed socially because the most respectable individuals of the Arabic society.

2. The condition at the time of ignorance:

Syed Amir Ali also ascribes in his book "The spirit of Islam" the social condition of women in the following words:

Female infants were killed and buried alive. A son after the death of could marry all wives of the father. Women were made slave and sold like animals in the markets; women used to sell their sexes to live. Thus, women were used as a sex objects.

3. Islam and reforms for women:

With the holy struggles of Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) all the evils against the women vanished. Islam provided equal rights to women as humans.

Islam highlight the dignity of women as humans, provide basic rights and freedom:

3.1 Islam and the dignity of women:

The Prophet of Allah

used to say

"whoever does bury daughter alive
or kill and does not give favour boys over girls, Allah enter
such persons in Paradise"

(Al-Hadith)

This holy tradition of the Prophet of Allah ascribes the most tremendous status of women in Islam. Therefore, Islam considers dignity of women
is one of the most important features.

3.2 Granting all basic rights:

Islam provides all basic needs of women. These needs include right to inheritance,
right to live, right to have children,
right to have property, right to marry.

3.3 Right to have property:

Islam does not sanction women's to have property. The best example was Hazrat Khadija (R.A) who had profound wealth and goods.

3.4 Equality for women:

"Women and men are two equal individuals"

(R.I. Hadith)

In the ignorance era women were considered inferior to men but Islam has provided full equality of women with men.

3.5 Right of a female as a mother:

Islam has given tremendous status to women as a mother.

"Paradise lies under feet of woman"

3.6 Woman as wife:

According to the tradition
of the holy prophet:

"The best individuals among you are those who treat their wives well"

3.7 Right to inheritance:

women are given $\frac{1}{3}$ from the property of father. When the father dies then it is important for brothers of female to give $\frac{1}{3}$ as inheritance.

4. Conclusion:

In short, Islam has provided all basic rights to women. This has enabled women to have property, goods and right to decide about future.

Q.NO. 7

1. Introduction:

The world order that has been pushing Islamophobia can be seen as the outcome religious and political extremism. Political leaders and militant groups have used religion as a tool to achieve the objectives. Consequently, it has given birth to violation of human rights and Islamophobia. Therefore, religious and political extremism in the world is the outcome of suppression of human rights and Islamophobia.

2. Extremism and Islam:

Islam does not support bloodshed, chaos, exploitation and injustice. According to Dr. Hamidullah's book Islam has been wrongly projected by the leaders and militants.

"The one who kills a single human, if is as if he killed the entire human beings, the one who saves a single person, if is as if he saved the entire humans..."
(Al-Quran)

Therefore, there is profound variation
between Islam and extremism.

2.1 Religious and Political extremism:

"Religious and political extremism
go hand by hand." In the globalised world numerous terror groups have utilised Islam as a tool to achieve objectives. The mass killings of innocent humans and damage of their wealth by the name of religion. This act has not only promoted extremism but also gave birth to political extremism.
Moreover, aggressive leaders around

Especially, in the west, the western nations who have been motivated by local and international political extremist leaders have understood Islam wrongly. Moreover, the native muslims of west have been discriminated and humaniliated by the name of terrorism. Further, muslims have been considered and projected by the political extremism in India, EU and United States as the friends of terrorism. Religious extremism of 9/11 and wrong interpretation of muslims by the western political extremist leaders have brought to live and die scenarios.

Thus, Islamophobia is the out of extremism by the name of religion.

3. Conclusion:

In short, Extremism has no interconnection with Islam. The

Q No. 6

1. Introduction:

Islam is a complete code of life. The Islamic teachings have enormous influences to achieve good governance not only in Pakistan but also in Islamic world. The Islamic teachings of service to humanity, elimination of evils, justice and merit, reducing discrimination, promotion of Islamic seminaries and sense of accountability can idealize good governance in Pakistan.

2. Idealizing good governance through Islamic teachings:

The system of good governance in Pakistan can be idealized through the following Islamic teachings:

2.1 Sense of accountability:

Islam teaches the sense of accountability. Humans will be made accountable about the good and bad deeds in hereafter. Leaders have been the main figures to be asked about the actions and policies. The head of administration should be taught and guided about the sense of accountability.

Government should teach and arrange seminars in training institutions to guide officers and children in educational institutions about the sense of accountability. Consequently, these children and officers will contribute in the promotion of good governance

in Pakistan.

2.2 Religious seminaries and schools:

Religious seminaries and schools play tremendous role in the formation of a society. The administrations should make Islamic history subject as compulsory. Teaching Islamic system under Prophet of Allah and Periods of Caliphs can change the perspective of youths. Thus, these individuals in the future will contribute in the formation of good governance in Pakistan.

2.3 Supremacy of Quran and Sunnah:

Constitution of 1973 has given profound status to the supremacy of Quran and Sunnah. Sadly, in education system there is no system to teach Quran Tafseer and the biography of prophet of Allah and Sunnah. The Government of Pakistan must make Tafseer of Quran and Sunnah in the higher level of education compulsory. Keeping this policy before can help the near future politicians, and officers to keep the supremacy of Quran before every act. Thus, the system of governance in Pakistan can be improved.

2.4 Elimination of inequality:

Social evils like discrimination, prostitution, crime, injustice, rape, fraud and robbing should be scolded according to holy teachings of Islam. Political leaders should give up their interests for the betterment of people. There must be strong stance of change in the punishment of criminals law. In criminal justice system the supremacy of Quran must be the first document of guidance for justice and punishment. Thus, good governance in Pakistan can be achieved.

3. Conclusions:

Thus, Islamic teachings in Pakistan has the capability to change the structure of governance. This is hard to implement in quick scenarios although can be implemented with passage of time.
