Q1

Patton was considered a controversial military figure because of his outspoken nature. According to him Soviet Union was a major threat to American's Democracy rather than the Nazis. He also said that America fought war with a wrong country in WWII else it should be Soviet Union. Thus, he was against American's defeating wrong enemy in WWII.

Yes the perspective of Patton is justified according to Alan Alexord. Patton has always been a huge supporter of America and Soviet Union's war and claim that they are a threat of America.

Things would have been very different if Patton had captured Moscow. By capturing Moscow it would then possess less threat for for Americans. There, ^{could} will be better outcome of the war and the cold war would have been prevented. Thus, Patton was always in-favour of attacking Moscow and capturing it.

Q4

The contrasting and Complimentary sentiments mentioned are the different shades in the nature of Patton. As Patton was always a controversial figure. Along with his aggressive tactics and outspoken views. He was always criticized for his different point of view yet some support him because of this as well.

5

Valuable lesson from views of Patton for leaders are so many. As Patton was a person of his own thoughts. He said whatsoever he wants to say as well as he was a man words. He think out of the box. So every leader needs to think out of the box irrespective of the fact that whatsoever anyone is thinking.
