Hyperglobalization is a extreme level of interconnectedness among countries which emphasis on trade, cultural exchange and technological innovation.

This reads more like a historical background than intro

The hyperglobalization have a positive aspects but it also has also created worsen ~~Sentence structure~~ prosperity, like income inequality, social injustice, political instability and cultural homogenization. So for prosperous and happier life of human government should take actions and control the hyper-globalization.

~~Main body:~~

This heading is to demarcate the sections of outline. It does not translate into a paragraph in the essay

* "Globalization creates our society more prosperous and creative, but also more vulnerable". Firstly, no discussion has been made so far caused the Antithesis which has a positive aspect of globalization

Why in inverted commas? If it is a quote reference it. If not remove the commas Globalization increased the economic opportunities and play a major role in gap of countries.

The discussion is not on globalisation

Grammatical structure is weak Economic growth occur when country improved their product and technologies. From Sentence structure perspectives the globalizations benefits are "to improve the quality of lives". According to Thomas Friedman globalizations has occurred because they adopt the neoliberal economic policies. Neoliberalism insists on

Irrelevant

Sri Aravind Subrahmanyam said "Hyperglobalization is dead, what is left to India?" started

Sentence structure

the discussion of hyperglobalization many cultural activist claim that hyperglobalization is

The reason for the reduced diversity of culture in world. Peoples opted the westernization culture and promote the western culture. Hyper-globalization creates the cultural homogenization

Countries losses their local culture and tradition, also this is threat to local languages.

No structure to paragraph.

Too many arguments.

No research. No analysis

Globalization creates inequality between the rich and poor. Hyper-globalization also increased unemployment and poverty in developing countries.

(like in Pakistan). ~~So~~

Secondly, hyper-globalization creates social injustices and marginalized the minorities. Elite class has the social benefits and become more prosperous. Richer were Richer and poor become Wrong use of word poor by hyperglobalization. However hyper globalisation

Thirdly, ~~help~~ ~~update~~ the natural resource

You are only mentioning arguments not discussing them for the infrastructure and transportation.

When exploitation of natural resource occurred its mean the biodiversity also damaged and going towards ends. Hyper-globalization also play an important role in Pollution, carbon emissions and climate changes. ~~This~~ For example, In Pakistan through hyper-globalization the climate change because of the burning fossil fuels, cutting down forest and increased the carbon dioxide in air are increasingly influence the climate change and the earth's temperature.

Example does not fit.

Concluding
sentence?

a threat to the local industries. Globalization also decreased the government control over the industries and increased the corruption. However, it also decreased ability for government to regulate and protect their economy. These all discussion directly and indirectly influence the and effect the human prosperity.

Start the conclusion with a concluding phrase

Conclusion:

The hyper-globalization has both positive and negative effect on human. The cost of hyper globalization, in the form of social injustices, rising income inequality and domination by foreign elites is unacceptable so that government should make some policies and have a check and balance on it.
~~It is~~ It is necessary to make a policies to promote local industries rather than imports.
Policies makers must ~~make~~ give advice and new policies to government, to promote skills.
