

Question NO. 2

Q2.

Precis

Peace need not be impracticable

The superpowers can maintain huge and unlimited nuclear force so, in order to gain because of new face of war. A single nuclear weapon is ten times more dangerous than all the allied forces in the WW-II.

Billions of dollars expenditure on nuclear weapons and no one want to surrender. The writer says that he realize, we have no urgent task to stop it. Some says it is unbelievable for all. He says, we must examine our own attitude because our attitude is compulsory for all.

Every citizen who dislike the war, and wishes to bring peace should examine itself and look inward himself. But ~~this is not correct~~ because all are gripped by the forces and we have no control at all. Our issues are our made. Peace need not practical and war not inevitable. By looking inward, defining hopes it seem more manageable and less social, we can help all others, and to move forward without danger.
