

QNo 2: PreciPeace in the Nuclear Era.

The author has highlighted the absurdity of full-scale war in a world where nuclear capabilities have changed the nature of warfare. In today's world, using nuclear weapons is senseless, because it would have severe effects on environment and even on next generation. Although countries spent huge amount on weapon production to use them as a deterrence, it is not the best method to ensure peace. That author states, those who speak for peace are ignored, while it is the most cautious task to sensible people. It is assumed that peace cannot be attained until the world leaders agree to it. The author believe that people can change their leaders' mindset but first, they must change their own attitude towards peace. Believing peace is impossible is dangerous and defeatist. Our man-made problem can be solved. By making peace attainable, we can aspire hope and work towards it..

Words: 160

QNo 3 Comprehension:

- 2) Drought is a prolonged period of absent rainfall. Due to the lack of rain, rivers and streams dried up, resulting in the death of cattle and the ruin of crops.

Answer 2:-

(2) No, the writer is not endorsing the famous saying about the sky. He is just presenting different perspectives.

Ans 3
Yes, weather forecasting is a science and it is called meteorology. Weather forecasting is based on research using scientific principles and data.

(4) It is not easy to forecast the weather because there are many external factors that affect the weather. These factors need to be studied carefully before giving the final accurate forecast.

(5) People that moon contains water, so when the moon used to die on its back, it was a sign that rain was coming.

Q No 4:-

(1) Allen Turing was a scholar, a scientist and an artist.

(2) Being thoroughly dissatisfied with the painting, they hid in the closet.

(3) Tim let his son swim with his friends.

(4) He has a four-year subscription to that magazine.

(5) Your heritage is different from mine.

Q No 5

Punctuation:

A fly sat on one of the shafts of a cart and said to the mule, who was pulling it, "how slow you are! Do men your pace, or I shall have to use my sting as a goad." The mule was not in the least disturbed. "Behind me in the court," said he, "sit my master. He holds the rein and flicks me with his whip, and him I obey. But I don't want any of your impertinence. I know when I may dawdle and when I may not."

Q No 6

Preposition:

- (i) We walked along the beach for several hours last night.
- (ii) Sam is going to the meeting in place of his brother, who has to work.
- (iii) The article discusses, for the most part, the possibility of life on other planets.
- (iv) John called his brother in hopes of finding somebody to watch his children.
- (v) The course will commence on 1st May, 2025.

Exercise.

Q No 7

Elicit: The teacher's question elicited a thoughtful answer from the student.

Illicit: The illicit trade of drugs were caught by the authorities.

Peal: The break bell at school, begins to peal at noon.

Peel: People don't like apple when it is peeled.

Taut: The rope was taut as the fishermen used it to catch fish.

Taught: She taught student how to solve problem.

Faint: She pointed in the class.

Feint: The footballer hit the ball to the left before striking to the right.

QNo 8: Dialogue.

In court, Mr. Thompson sought compensation for wrongful termination, believing he was unfairly dismissed after eight months. The judge pointed out that under the law, employees with less than 9 years service aren't eligible for ~~service~~ ^{relief} unless there is evidence for discrimination or specific right violations. Mr. Thompson insisted that his rights were violated, but the judge explained that without such grounds, reliefs couldn't be granted. Realizing there was nothing he could do, Mr. Thompson thanked the judge, who then dismissed the case.

Q No. 9 Translation.

Currently, a dispute occurred in the Book Fair at Jabore. Because instead of focusing on the literary activities, there were many food stalls and non-literary things being sold, which overlooked the main purpose of the fair. Most of the participants expressed disappointment and felt that book fair mostly turned into a food market in which there is little space and focus on books; writers and literary discussions. Instead of excessively focusing on food stalls at the fair, efforts should be made to promote reading and the sale of books. A debate started on whether the event was fulfilling its literary purpose more prioritizing commercial interest.