

Man : A Social Animal

Man can't live alone without interaction and exchange of services. According to author, some people produce means of life for others and get such services in response. Humans are dependent upon teachers for knowledge, books for trade, and ancients for laws of life. Moreover, people also need companions to relax the hardships and get relief. (55 words)