

TITLE: PURSUING PEACE IN NUCLEAR AGE.

For author the advocacy of peace is essential. Given the catastrophic potential of nuclear warfare and the possibility of total war. Rationality deters nuclear stockpiling as way to ensure peace. Instead, a more enlightened attitude towards nuclear world must be crafted by nations, world leaders and people. Everybody, who wish to ensure peace, must reassess his pessimistic, 'nuclear-dependent' peace outlook. Redefining goals around; war is not inevitable, peace is not impractical, society can and must create hope for the future mankind.

QUESTIONS:

- i- Droughts are defined as prolonged periods of no rainfall. As water is essential to maintain life and lifestyle, its absence results in dried water flows, agricultural losses, and death of livestock.
- ii- No, the writer doesn't endorse the popular sayings about the red sky. However, the writer mentions that while these saying may sometimes be correct, they are often wrong and unreliable.
- iii- Yes, the weather forecasting is a science. It is called meteorology.
- iv- Forecasting weather is difficult because many different variable affect the weather. Each must be considered separately crucial to make accurate or close to most accuracy decision.

Date: _____

v- In early times, man believed that moon controlled the weather and that it contained alot of water, especially when it appeared as a crescent lying on its back, which was thought to signify incoming rain.

QUESTION # 07 :

Most recently, a controversy arose at Lahore's book fair. Amid literary activities the attention found diverted to stalls selling food and other non-literary items, putting real cause of the festival into backburner. Many participants showed discontent and expressed view that book fair has turned into food market. Where space and attention for books, authors and literary dialogues have shrunk. Due to this excessive emphasis over food stalls instead of book sales, a debate erupted whether the event was fulfilling its literary purpose or merely prioritizing commerial interests.