Q No 7 Translate the following into English.

Recently, a conflict arose in the Lahore Book fair because instead of paying attention towards books and literacy/academic activities, there were some stalls present where food items and other than academic things were being selling, which put forth the real purpose of the book fair. Many participants dismay over this and felt that "Book fair" is more the food fair, in which less space ^{and attention} was for Books, authors and educational columns. Due to shift of focus on food stalls in this fair instead of promoting selling of Books. New argument started that this ceremony was fulfilling the academic purpose or just preferred the trading benefits.
