

what is the difference human beings' fear of death and children's fear of darkness.

The difference is that, the children fear of darkness comes from the stories which they heard about ghost and supernatural phenomena, while the human beings' fear increased with hearing the tales of dying man.

what is a religious and sacred view of death.

According to the writers, - People take death as a punishment of their bad deeds and transformation of one world to another world - the view called as religious and sacred view of death.

what are the painful experience describe by Monks in their books.

Monks explains this painful concept as physical torture which is not easily bearable for a man, but the aim of this pain to purify their souls.

What are the views of Seneca about death?

A Roman Philosopher Seneca tried to share his view about death, according to him the situations and funeral rituals make people more frightened.

What are the facts that makes death appears more horrible than it would be otherwise?

Meaning of dying person's transfiguration of his body, paling of his face and the mourning of his relatives are make death more horrible than actually it is.