Title: War: The ulcer of Economy

Peace is more important than war because war makes no sense in the lens of history.

The main purpose of spending on weapons should be to ensure peace only. Pursuit of peace is not dramatic as pursuit of war. Nothing is more important than to speak for peace. Every citizen has the responsibility to work for peace as an individual and as a nation as well. The belief that it is impossible and unreal is dangerous and cause of war. Therefore, our problems are man made which can be removed by moving irresistibly towards it.

Recently, a dispute arise from a book related event in Lahore, because the focuse was not on books and ethical activities rather there was stalls on which eating items and non-ethical items were selling, that forgotten the real purpose of event. Many participants showed disappointment, it was noted that the book point has turned into food point, in which place and attention for books, writers, and for ethical debates was negligible. Due to rush on eating stalls in this event, rather than promoting the book sales a new debate started that, was this event achieving its ethical goals or mere was promoting its trade

interests.
