Q6: (B)

Judge asked Mr. Thompson if he was seeking compensation for wrongful termination. Plaintiff replied in affirmation and told the judge that in his honour he believed that he was had been unfairly dismissed. The judge asked further whether he had been let after eight months. Plaintiff agreed with judge. Judge gave legal reference and told that under the laws, employees with less than a year are not eligible for the relief unless there is evidence of discrimination or specific rights violation. Plaintiff told the judge that he felt his rights had been violated. The judge agreed with him but said that without those grounds, he could grant relief. Then plaintiff asked the judge if there was nothing he could do. The judge replied him that his hands were tied by the law. The plaintiff thanked the judge and said that he understood. The judge dismissed the case.

Q7: Translation

Recently, in a book fair of Lahore, there arose a dispute, because there were food stalls and other stalls of things except books, other things were being sold there, despite paying attention on literary activities which diverted the actual purpose of fair. Many attendants of fair showed disappointment while saying and feeling that "the book fair" has become bazaar of food, in which books, authors and literary things are given less place and less attention. Due to more attention on food stalls, instead of reading and selling of books, this debate has emerged that whether this ceremony achieved its literary aim or it was giving importance to economic priorities.
