THE ESSAY

Teachers are the main component of society who convert masses into nation. A society has various tasks which are ultimately divided through division of labour. Out of this hierarchy, teacher gets a crucial role to properly educate and reshape students into better human beings for betterment of country. Big nations of world always give due share of respect to their teachers. For instance, teachers of Harvard and Oxford live a life that is worthy of a teacher. Role of teachers is very obvious for each nation. No country can progress without recognition of teachers as the masses of nation.

First of all, Nation rises by respecting their teachers. There is no room to debate whether to respect a teacher or not. Teacher is the only person who gains by giving away his asset. Teacher continues the legacy and asset of knowledge from existing to younger generation. No matter the subject he teaches, teacher is the pivotal point to mould nation's motive. Base of the growing generation is set by the teachers. Teaching is a noble profession. The profession of nobles and prophets. The Prophet (P.B.U.H) himself was a great teacher and distributing knowledge.

A certified Hadith states:

أنا بعثت معلماً
 "I have been sent to you as a Mu'dim (Teacher)."

The importance of teaching can also be derived from one of the events in life of Rasool Allah (S.A.W) - Once, after a war some infidels were kept by prophet as war slaves. He allowed them to choose whether they wanted to give money for freedom or they wanted to teach something to kids of Madina.

The people enslaved by might of sword could become free for their teaching services. This enlightens importance of education as well - Teaching is also as a career worth living. It enlightens pathway of many people who relate to teacher.

Around the globe, this career is widely respected and given importance.

The highest office holder in Germany, who functions as head of state in Germany holds the title of "Chancellor".

This shows their keen interest towards education and importance of teaching career - Their immense importance to education brings respect to this profession.

likewise, in Pakistan, Respect for teachers is necessary but it is subsequently divided into three stages. At individual level, the respect comes directly from the students being taught. More than 180 higher educational purpose built universities to the 68,000 registered private schools stand by the public sector numerous schools and colleges as well. Millions of students studying in these institutions are subjected to respect thousands of teachers working in this field. At individual level every student is expected to respect their mentors. Next comes the community level, The profession is out of the institutional rooms. In the society, each profession is to be given due regard but the services of teachers includes teaching their knowledge and skills. Teaching skills regarding any profession is also immediate part of being a teacher. When it comes to Government level, There needs to be taken more steps to involve community respect. Teachers should be provided with greater salaries, their expenses should be met by government to further push society for becoming a teacher. Also, the annual award ceremony should be held at govt level to encourage and uplift the teachers. The extended support of govt and community involvement should be used to recognize role of teachers as nation builders of society-

The moral rise of a nation is attributed to the teachers who work for this significant cause. The Moral values and culture is raised at both the primary and higher level of education. The moral values are inculcated into kids through behaviour and speech of the teachers. The adults also view their teachers and their interaction as a role model for their character development. Teachers teach the students about the ~~the~~ importance of each career and their respect. For example, at a school from principal, labours, maids and sweepers all work together to run an institution. It is in the very root of that teacher teach students to respect each individual. Same is the case with society. Society works with help of different careers and the students coming from schools then act as responsible citizens by recognition of all. This gives nation a sense of complement from one another as all work to make a society.

Among all individuals, the well-educated ones are given a priority because these are the people who hold greater knowledge and the key asset for the next generation. They make research, inventions and passage to of their precious knowledge. In this way, the individuals who actually deserve thrive. This too is an embodiment of great nations. Moral values which are basis of any society are expected from teachers to be delivered in both ways, verbal and their actions. The school going children are less exposed to crime and other evils conclusively. This is the prime and key role of teacher into rise of nations.

In practical approach teachers play a big role that approach society. The practical fields of society and recruitment of individuals into different fields is all possible by schools. In a classroom, one teacher attends 30 students for instance but it is evident that they all will go for different careers. One level playing field from where all these successful people thrive is the classroom. A teacher becomes reason for different careers in the society. The educational institutions themselves and their evolution into greater ones is all a result of teachers efforts. A teacher is the one who organizes small events but one of his student is able to organize a whole company. This is the rise of a nation. Whole nation comes from that one holy place which makes them able to achieve big. When all professions including teaching go into their right path with required pace, nation automatically gets on the path of progress. When teachers are given their due respect in society, it encourages more people to become ~~students~~ teachers. It also includes their fulfilment of needs.

Conclusively, teachers are nation builders and respecting them in right way leads to rising of nations.
