Making World Peaceful by Changing Thoughts about Wars

In this passage, the author talks about ~~war~~ necessity of bringing peace and says wars are useless in this nuclear age. Because these nuclear forces are many times dangerous than the forces of Allied Powers in World War II, which can destroy everything including generation ahead. Today, countries are purchasing these most expensive and dangerous weapons not to use them but to ensure peace. Although in author's point of view this is not only way to promote peace, because today's wars are not more than a drama. Author says that peace is possible and wars are evitable. Just people need to change their thinking who say that wars are inevitable, and this can help world leaders to achieve disarmament and to maintain peace. Because our problems are man made and these can be solved.
