

Your essay would have passed if you hadn't made some mistakes.

* You weren't able to portray the ideas in your outline the way you thought.

Outline:

* Work on your punctuation

* Sentence structure mistakes

* Informal writing

* Work on your conjunction

* Don't do abrupt shift In times of crisis

* Work on your evidence and examples

alleviate immediate suffering but also shape respect.

Your language is fine

- Bravery serves to alleviate immediate suffering in the time of crisis.
Must attend the tutorial session for further suggestions and flaws

- Bravery leads to live saving actions in the time of crisis.
- Leadership in crises give hope to the followers.

Rephrase it

- Respect in politics is earned when showed bravery in the time of crises.

- Individuals showcasing bravery are recognized by the world.

- Humanitarian response; A sign of bravery

- Bravery is often celebrated; It leads to conflicts when misinterpreted.

- Courageous Actions Shape Global Respect.

- Courageous actions encourage others to join in, thus creating a collective response.
- Courageous response ; hope for others.
- Courageous response attract global attention.
- Media plays a vital role in highlighting the courageous actions.
- Innovation leads to recognition; if it is done for a positive purpose.
- Courageous action taken for future generations.

- Conclusion:

It seems like you have understood the topic; but unfortunately, you didn't present it on the paper properly.

I learned the courage was not the absence of fear, but the triumph over it; is the famous quote of Nelson Mandela when he was fighting for the human rights. Bravery refers to showing determination and resistance against the aggressor, whereas ability or actions to do this is called courageous action. Bravery leads to life saving actions in the time of crisis. Actions taken by the leaders in the time of crisis are a beacon of lights for the followers. These actions if done for a positive purpose are also respected by the opponents as well. Not only leaders but individuals who show determination are also recognized worldwide. When it comes to society, these brave actions encourage others to join in; thus creating a collective response. Courage shown by the innovators are recognized and rewarded. It is also a guidance for the future generations to become successful in difficult situations.

In the time of crisis actions of bravery not only serve to alleviate immediate suffering but also shape respect.

Work on your conjunction

Moreover, bravery leads to life saving actions in the time of crisis. Those who show actions in crisis are supported by the others as well. In other words, bravery is a tool to help people in the crisis.

Abrupt shift
The government of South Africa filed a case in ICT against Israel to save the people in the West Bank and asked ICT to force Israel to stop the Can't align with the argument.

genocide in the area. Hence, it is proved that the actions taken in crisis are a hope for the people who are suffering and are on the verge of death and life.

Likewise, leadership in crisis gives hope to the followers. In other words, if the leader is not brave then how will the followers get inspiration? Ex-President of US who is fighting elections for becoming President of US has been assassinated twice by the unknown but he showed calmness and gave a strong message to the followers and the opponents that he is there to survive and fight till the end. Hence leadership gives courage and moral support to the followers to stay strong and stay determined even in the time of crisis.

Likewise, bravery is also the key constituent in politics.

Now provide someone else's example

Respect in politics is earned when Donald Trump has showed bravery. Donald Trump has been emphasizing for the peace in the middle east, during his speeches in California he promised the muslim community to have a ceasefire when he will become the president. His positive approach for peace in middle east and Ukraine gave him respect and showcase the positive intention of his administration. So, respect in politics is earned with brave decisions and positive intentions.

Additionally, people who show bravery are recognized and rewarded by the world.

Recognition refers to the reward or a gift given by the higher authorities of the world or the state. Individuals showcasing bravery are given respect in the whole world. Malala Yousafzai is the perfect example of individuals who earned respect globally. She stood up for girls and women who are oppressed, have no education facility. She has been awarded with the Nobel Prize for her services for the women. So, brave individuals are recognized worldwide for their distribution in the positive fields.

Moreover, humanitarian response are in war and peace are the good example of bravery in the crisis. These are the doctors without borders especially working in the war zones. The doctors in the Gaza are the perfect example of this, who risked their life to save the humans there. They showed bravery and gave a strong message to the aggressors that they will not care about their life and will work selflessly. It shows that humanitarian response is also a sign of bravery.

Besides, bravery is seen as a positive determinant it often leads to destruction and killing of innocent people. Bravery is often celebrated; it leads to conflicts when misinterpreted. Israel attack on Palestine and neighbouring countries for killing of militants who were involved in attack on Israel resulted in killing of thousands of innocent peoples. It is proved that bravery in a positive sense is fine but when misinterpreted it leads to conflicts and killing of innocent people.

Also, courageous actions shape global respect. These actions not only encourages others but also help them to take steps to join them. These positive actions are recognized globally. South Africa filed a case against human right violations in the middle East especially Gaza which gave courage to the rest of the world to speak against the West and ask for an immediate ceasefire.

Many countries, including some western countries, spoke about the Western (USA and alliance) hypocrisy which shows courageous actions leads to a collective response.

Furthermore, these actions are beacon of light for others as well. Courageous actions are the hope for others as well. Arshad Nadeem; the man with the golden arm, won an Olympic gold medal in Paris 2024. It is proved that actions taken with determination are the hope for the followers, a man without good facilities won a gold medal for the country.

Moreover, if actions are taken with courage and determination are remembered for a long period of time. These

Try to come up with recent examples

actions are remembered for the public service. UN response on environmental issues were welcomed by the world in 1972. These responses followed by a conference

(Stockholm Conference) are an example of acceptability of courageous actions taken by the UN on the environmental issues.

Although, media plays a vital role in the recognition of these actions. Media is a tool needed to be handled properly to ensure the right actions to get the mainstream.

You can't provide such
examples

ASP Shehrbano is a distinguish example of media playing a positive role in highlighting the courageous actions. I'm

Moreover, innovations done with courage are a tool for recognition in the world. Doctors who made vaccine for corona virus during COVID-19 shows that innovation done in the right way would be entertained worldwide.

To cut the long story short, bravery showed in the time of crisis help not only to be shape respect but to get rid of the issue as well. Actions in crisis are entertained worldwide. It leads to saving the people, stop the bloodshed and to fight against the non-state actors as well. People learn from their leaders, if these leaders stand tall in the time of crisis are idealized by the people. Individual who stood determined at in crisis are rewarded worldwide. Innovation also leads to the recognition; it also gives hope to the future generation to work hard and show bravery when in difficult situation. It is hoped that the upcoming generation will face the issues with bravery and try to solve the issues without blood-shed.

Also