

Part - IIQ# 2:

Peace as a Practical Goal

Title: War and Peace: A prospect in the new age. 05/20

War in the new age is more catastrophic than it was before. The new age holds power of the most advanced nuclear weapons even as compared to those used <sup>history</sup> in World War 2. The deadliest nuclear weapons hold the power to destroy the globe. The dollars spent on attaining ~~this~~ weapons is a way to acquire peace, but this is not the way of rational men. Moreover, <sup>some people think that</sup> the concept of peace is irrelevant until the hostile nations of the world aim to pursue peace.

Nations and individuals as a whole need to examine themselves. The proponents of peace should be the first to do it. Self-reflection is necessary, but it should not lead to the conclusion that mankind is beyond saving. Peace is inevitable, and war is avoidable only if mankind works towards it together without backing out.
