Recently a dispute arose in a book fair conducted in Lahore. The dispute arose because of overemphasis on stalls such as food and refreshment over book stalls. The various non-literary stalls compromised the real purpose of the event. Majority participants expressed discontent and stated that that "book fairs" had become a spot for food stalls where books, authors, and literary talks were not prioritised and food was the top priority. The overemphasis on food stalls within the event sparked a debate, that instead of promoting book sales to achieve
