Q No 2: Taiwan is a potential conflict between China and USA. Critically evaluate the reasons and why and how the two countries must avoid the conflict.

Introduction:

Taiwan's status has long been a flashpoint in Sino-American relations with potential repercussions for regional and global stability. This is critically evaluates the reasons behind the Taiwan conflicts between China and USA and suggest measures to prevent escalation into a broader conflict.

I. Reasons for the Conflict:

1. Historical Context:

Taiwan's separation from China dates back to the Chinese Civil war which concluded in 1949. The Republic of China (ROC) retreated to Taiwan while the People's Republic of China (PRC) was established on the mainland. China views Taiwan as a breakaway province, while Taiwan operates as a self-governing entity.

2. Nationalism and Identity:

The rise of Taiwanese nationalism has fostered a distinct identity separate from China. Many Taiwanese see themselves as different from mainland Chinese, leading to resistance against reunification efforts.

"Nation-ness is the most universal, and one of the most powerful, cultural systems of power"

(Benedict Anderson)

3. Geopolitical Rivalry:

The USA has historically supported Taiwan through arms sales and diplomatic gestures such as the Taiwan Relations Act.

This support is perceived by China as interference in its internal affairs, increasing tensions. The USA's strategic interest in containing China's influence in the Asia-Pacific regions further complicates the situation.

4. Military Buildup:

China has significantly increased its military presence near Taiwan, conducting military drills and sending aircraft into Taiwan's air defense identification zone (ADIZ). This military posturing is intended to signal China's resolve but raises fears of miscalculations leading to conflict.

Let us never negotiate out of fear.

But let us never fear to negotiate.

(John F. Kennedy)

5. Economic Interdependence:

Taiwan plays a crucial role in the global semiconductor industry. The potential disruption of Taiwan's economy could have far-reaching implications, making the stakes higher for both nations.

Q No 3: Critically evaluate the unconditional support of US for Israel effects its image in the Arab Countries and how it provides a space to China and Russia to penetrate into the Middle East.

Introduction:

The United States unwavering support for Israel has long been a cornerstone of its foreign policy in the Middle East. While this alignment has strategic implications for US interests, it also significantly affects the image in Arab countries and provides opportunities for rival powers like China and Russia to extend their influence in the region.

"Israel's security is sacrosanct. It is not negotiated, but a lasting peace requires that both sides to recognize each other's right to exist."

(Barack Obama)

I. Effects on U.S Image in Arab Countries :

1. Perception of Bias and Inequity:

The unconditional support of the U.S for Israel fosters a perception of bias among Arab nations. This perception is increased by American military and financial aid to Israel which is often seen as endorsement of its actions against Palestinians.

"According to a 2021 Arab Opinion Index survey by the Arab Center for Research and Policy Studies, 88% of respondents in Arab countries viewed the U.S as biased towards Israel."

2. Diminished Credibility as a Mediator:

The U.S has positioned itself as a mediator in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. However, its strong alignment with Israel undermines its credibility.

3. Impact on Public Opinion:

Public sentiment in many Arab countries is largely sympathetic to the Palestinian cause. U.S. support for Israel alienates the American image, portraying it as a supporter of oppression. This negative perception can fuel anti-American sentiment and extremism within the region.

"The U.S must recognize that its support for Israel does not contribute to stability or peace" (Hanan Ashrawi)

4. Strained Diplomatic Relations:

The U.S. staunch support for Israel complicates its relationships with Arab nations. While some states like Egypt and Jordan have peace treaties with Israel.

II. Opportunities for China and Russia:

A. Geopolitical Vacuum:

As the US solidifies its position with Israel, a geopolitical vacuum emerges that rival powers like China and Russia can exploit. These nations can present themselves as alternative partners for Arab states, promoting policies that are more aligned with local interest and grievances.

B. Economic Investments and Alliances:

China has significantly increased its economic presence in the Middle East through initiatives like the Belt and Road Initiatives (BRI). China offers a partnership that does not come with the political circumstances associated with US support for Israel. This economic diplomacy attracts countries looking for alternatives to American influence.

C. Military Cooperation:

Russia has sought to strengthen its military ties in the Middle East, conducting arms sales and engaging in joint military exercises with several Arab nations. This military cooperation provides a counterbalance to U.S. influence and positions Russia as a reliable ally for those disillusioned with American policies.

D. Increased Soft Power:

China and Russia can strengthen their influence in the Arab world by aligning with Arab feelings, especially about Palestinian rights. For instance, China promotes itself as a country that respects other nations' choices and does not interfere in their internal matters.

Conclusion :

In conclusion, the US unwavering support for Israel affects that it is viewed in Arab countries leading to feelings of bias and reducing its credibility as a peace mediator.
