Translation:

History is full of such successful people who started their lives in difficult circumstances, but later they were among the world's successful and famous people. Success, respect and fame are never given to you on a silver platter. Only wealth can be given on a silver platter. Even for that, there is a pre-requisite that your forefathers own property. Only then, you will get wealth. With wealth, you can buy worldly items but not happiness. Sometimes, man spends decades in earning respect; only a moment is enough to earn dishonour or <sup>to</sup> become controversial.
