

Duty First, Money Second

It is impossible for a well-mannered and well-trained man to prioritize money as an objective. All the fit man ~~like~~ valued their dinner, but it is not all in all for them. All the professionals liked their work, but it not for just paying off. A soldier's first goal is to win battles; cleric first goal is to preach people, a good doctor's life mission is to save life. A good doctor always prefers patient's life over fee. Although, the money, the fees are important, but are always second.
