

If the world does not entice you, if the fear of Allah makes you emotional, if the idea of hell brightens you, if you worship exactly how you must, if virtue attracts you, and if you control yourself from going astray, then you are pious.

One is fortunate if he is pious. Piety is the application of perseverant purification and struggle. It is a time-taking and arduous process.