

Translation

History is full of such people who started their lives in difficult situations, but with the passage of time they are counted in renowned and successful personalities of the world. Success, respect and fame is not served only wealth is served, for this your pre ancestors should have property, only then you can have wealth. You can buy worldly essentials with money but not happiness. Sometimes it takes decades to earn respect but only a moment is enough for insult.