

Translation:

If the world does not attract you, your eyes fill with tears in fear of Allah, thoughts about hell cause the fear of God in you, good deeds appeal you and your feet stops you from following the path of bad deeds then you are a pious. Some are pious and some pretend to be pious. Being a pious is a good luck and pretending to be a pious is an action of continuous self-purification. It takes a long time and one has to bear hardships.
