Money is not the primary objective of a sound man.

All man enjoy making money but their passion is what they enjoy best. For example, a good soldier is stimulated in war.

It is a surplus for him to be paid for it. A priest aims to guide and he's happy for the money he gets. A doctor on the other hand, ~~gets~~ gets excited for the money he makes, but what really means to them is to help sick, ease suffering and save lives. Hence, for all righteous and real man, their passion is primary and and ~~the~~ money is secondary.

This is rare, but this is how it is supposed to be
for everyone.
