History is full of such people who began their lives in very difficult periods. However, later, they were enshrined among the successful and the renowned personalities of the world. Success, respect, and reputation can never be achieved easily. Only wealth can be achieved easily. But it has one necessary condition that your ancestors should own wealth then you would be able to own wealth. You can buy worldly facilities with wealth but you can not buy happiness with it. Sometimes, a person takes decades for achieving respect. For becoming humiliated and controversial figure, one moment is enough.
