For knowledgeable and courageous individuals, money is not the primary goal, just as dinner is not the main focus of life, despite its importance. While healthy minded people enjoy earning money, they prioritize their work over monetary gain. A soldier ~~pr~~ values winning battles more than being paid for it, a clergyman's purpose is to preach rather than be compensated, and a doctor aims to heal, not just to collect fees. For all daring and truthfully trained professionals, their duty is above than financial rewards.

Title : Primacy of Duty of Financial Rewards.
