

Value of Money

Money-making is not the sole purpose for the experts. Instead, they cherish it as a reward for their services. A warrior cannot be contented without fighting, as he fights for victory, not money. A clergy also preaches religion not to earn money. And, a doctor would not be as satisfied by money as after curing their patients without caring about the loss of fees when their patients get cured. It proves that work is more important than money for specialists.
