Money Supports, Doesn't Define Life.

The prime motive of wise men could never be just making money as his prime objective. A healthy mind will always like to win as a reward of something which is more noble in his perception.

For instance a doctor and a soldier, both doing their duty and in return they get ~~can~~ paid for their services. However a good doctor and soldier prioritize their duty over the money. So, this illustrates that money being essential ~~is~~ still come second in rightly educated person's priority list.
